HJKRVSS: Growing with Confidence

Childhood Enhancement through Training and Action (HJKRVSS), founded under Public Charitable Trust Registration Act in 2002, envisions building a child-friendly society. The organization seeks sustainable solutions to long-term problems of 'street and working children (SWC)' through an integrated, community-based, participatory approach that reinforces civil society as well as government initiative. Through an array of empowering measures, it works to open opportunities for SWC and improve their living conditions. HJKRVSS, at present, is engaged working with over 4000 street and working children through a chain of 100 contact points in Delhi and its neighboring states of Uttar Pradesh and Madhya Pradesh.

Our vision

HJKRVSS aspires to achieve a child-friendly society where every child attains Rights to Survival, Protection, Development and Participation.

Our Mission

Addressing the depravity of street and working children through association, consultation and collaborative effort.

From the Chairman

HJKRVSS over the last decade has established itself as an organization committed towards welfare and empowerment of street and working children. The organization has worked with multiple stakeholders: governmental bodies, media, private sector, international and national NGOs and multilateral organizations to create a platform and an understanding towards this marginalized and voiceless section of the society.

Taking impetus from its previous work HJKRVSS this year articulated and highlighted issues of street and working children at the international level as well. We participated at The World Congress on Juvenile Justice System. HJKRVSS was able to present its experience of working with local policing systems vis-à-vis street and working children. The presentation also included how its work on sensitization and working with local governments and juvenile justice system led to greater impact.

HJKRVSS also understands that street and working children sometime unwittingly become part of corporate supply chains. To ensure opportunities of education, health, nutrition, play and survival it was thus necessary to work with the private sector. HJKRVSS therefore led consultations with the private sector both in India and The United Kingdom.

All these activities made it possible for HJKRVSS to highlight a few issues at the national level. Issues of children at railway platforms and substance abuse among children have now been taken up for action by NCPCR and DCPCR respectively.

Indian Judicial system has formulated standard operating procedures for railways authorities for children living on the platform/run-away children. HJKRVSS is one of the first organizations to accept and implement these guidelines in partnership with railway authorities and railway police.

From Director's Desk

Childhood Enhancement through Training and Action (HJKRVSS) enters into its thirteenth year (2015) with a remarkable confidence. With sharpened clarity on approach and improved knowledge and talent base, the organization is poised to leap ahead to cover other untouched marginalized children. With the turn of this year, HJKRVSS feels proud to present its Annual Report 2023-2024, which provides you a glimpse of what we did and achieved this year through our synergised effort.

This year too, reaching the most marginalized section of our society, that is, 'street and working children (SWC),' has been our primary goal. In the process, we successfully touched 16192 young lives through seven projects spread across the three states (Delhi, U.P., and M.P.) of the country.

The CSR bill, which passed the Parliament in 2013, has begun to affect the work of NGOs. It came to us as a significant help this year. As the HJKRVSS's cost-effective strategies are well-suited to the provisions of the CSR Act, I hope that our work with street children will continue to attract corporate organizations in the same manner. The year 2023 also proved crucial in converging the focus of all the stakeholders on the issues faced by children. Our collective effort led the NCPCR dedicate the whole year for street children.

This year HJKRVSS received significant international exposure. It participated in the World Congress on Juvenile Justice System in Geneva and in a Consultation Programme held in UK. Balaknama (quarterly newspaper for street and working children) made its presence felt both in India and abroad. Besides, we happily shared our Contact Point model of Alternative Education with various NGOs from countries like Nepal, Ghana, and Bangladesh.

Overview of the year 2023-2024

This year we were able to touch 16192 street and working children through seven projects, 124 contact points, four Peer to Peer Harm Reduction Centre, and through various media, publications, radios programmes and activities.

This year too HJKRVSS laid special emphasis on expansion of education amongst street and working children (SWC). Through its seven different projects, it stressed that education can play a significant role in empowering SWC and in securing a rightful place for them.

Besides education, empowerment of SWC was also attempted through the activities of life-skill workshops, exposure visits, residential workshops, police station visits, talent events, rallies, visits to primary health centers, awareness generation on child rights and government services for children through various media etc. Health camps and PHC visits were provided for their health checkups and treatment of common diseases.

Activities of parents meeting, stakeholders meeting, and change-makers training were organized to empower parents and other community members to seek their involvement in the projects.

This year, films, news stories and radio programs on the Balaknama (the quarterly newspaper of Badhte Kadam) gave it a wider visibility. The Balaknama, in tandem with its increase in reach and readership, went up from 4 pages to 8.

The NCPCR, taking cognizance of a story published in the Balaknama about railway officials employing children in removing dead bodies from railway premises and tracks across the country, wrote to the Railway Board to set up an enquiry committee to look into the matter.

PROJECTS

Realizing Rights

Empowering Children to Ensure Their Rights to survival, protection, development and participation

With the turn of the year 2023 the three-year project Realizing Rights entered its final phase. Therefore, in an effort to catch up with the timeline and reach the initial target, in the period 2023-2024 we saw an upswing in the project activities.

Starting in 2023, the project aimed an all-round development of 8,200 street and working children (SWC) over a period of three years, ensuring their rights to survival, protection, development and participation. Besides, it also aimed at providing basic services to these children. The project operated through 82 contact points in the selected pockets of the following 7 districts: West Delhi, South Delhi, NOIDA, Mathura, Agra, Gwalior, and Jhansi.

This year many new activities were carried out under the project: SADAK KI GOOGLY (a cricket match played between street children and police officials), media sensitization workshop, health awareness rallies (In collaboration with the district's health departments). This year the project

Street to School

Attempt to make child friendly market engaging different stakeholders

Lajpat Nagar is one of the most crowded and busiest markets of Delhi. The opportunity to work cultivated by the market attracts 'street and working children' in large numbers. They earn their livelihood by picking rags, polishing shoes, selling petty goods, working as domestic servants, and sometimes by begging. Their life is heavily deprived of the basic necessities of childhood, such as, education, nutrition, recreation, etc. The project strives to achieve all-round development of these children through a centre called Sapnon Ki Duniya. Children are trained in art and craft.

This year the exhibition of their paintings at Aparna Art Gallery won many laurels. They also got the ample opportunity to express their talents in a talent shows organized for them.

Dreams on Wheels

An attempt to rehabilitate platform connected children at Delhi, Mathura, Agra and Jhansi stations

The project is a systematic response to the increasing number of children living or working on railway platforms (from Agra to Gwalior) and their increasingly deteriorating situation. Day in and day out they are exposed to serious kinds of risks, trafficking and abuses. With support from Plan India, the project started in 2006. It seeks that the children living or working on railway platforms are ensured their child rights, and provided opportunities to grow and develop. Effort is made to guard them from getting abused and trafficked. As a significant achievement, this year 480 children were restored back to their families.

- ☞ HJKRVSS was lead organization in organizing NCPDR annual day in which entire year is dedicated to Railway connected children

Open Basic Education

Most of the street children in India are working children. Being earning hands, their poor parents do not encourage them to go school. Besides, in the case of conflicting school and work time, the children drop out soon after the enrollment. NIOS and OBE are the distance school education system to cater to the needs of such working children. The project, initiated in June 2008, aims to reach the school drop-outs, out-of-school SWC, poor urban youths, and all those who have been left out of the mainstream formal education system on account of poverty and lack of opportunity.

CHILDLINE AT AGRA

CHILDLINE in Agra is established to provide assistance to all the children who are in need of care and protection in the city. The service is provided through a toll-free 24-hour emergency phone service (1098). It aims to respond not only to emergency needs but also to link them to various services established for their long-term care and rehabilitation. CHILDLINE has been designed to act as a crucial link between children in need of care and protection and the available facilities. This one-point contact is meant to facilitate instant access to support, advice, and active intervention. This year the Childline, Agra handled 414 cases.

Snapshots of OBE project (2023-2024)

- ☞ 19 children were rescued from abuse and provided emotional guidance to 15 children.

Peer-to-Peer Harm Reduction Centre

The project 'Peer-to-Peer Harm Reduction Centre' was initiated in 2009 with support from i- Partner and Plan-India. The project aims to bring down the harmful practice of substance abuse among street and working children (SWC). With its two centres, one in Nizamuddin and another in Mathura, it primarily targets the children who live and/or work at the railway stations and consume substances. During the three-year's journey of the project, over 900 children have been assisted through its two centers, helping them either get rid of substance consumption or at least minimize the hazards by reducing their intake. This year the project conducted assessment and profiling of 62 children by a team of doctors from Escort Fortis. 40 other children also received counseling therapy from clinical psychologists.

Snapshots of Peer-to-Peer Harm Reduction Centre (2023-2024):

- ☞ This year 448 substance using children (boys – 390, girls -58) in the age-group of project's 2 Harm Reduction Centres.

Children Advisory Board (CAB)

CAB is a unique and innovative project initiated by Plan India in 2006. In the beginning it operated with 20 CAB members (all children in the age group of 12-18 years). This year the figure reached to 38 (comprising 6 members from private schools, 9 from government schools, 20 from NGOs, and 3 from children homes). Effort is being made to increase the membership up to 50. In order to give it a versatile base children taken in for it were from diverse background, which included Delhi Public Schools, Central Schools, NGOS, Plan India partner organizations, etc.

The project aims to advocate and promote child rights of the deprived children of Delhi and their participation in wider decision making process. The board (CAB) on behalf of the marginalized children raises issues pertaining to the violation of child rights, and make effort to influence the duty bearers and policies for children. They do it by associating itself with other national organizations of youths and children, and through an array of activities: radio programmes, publications, meetings, painting exhibitions, etc.

In the process, it also helps build network of NGOs and contributes in their capacity development.

Snapshots of Children Advisory Board (2023-2024)

- ☞ The project has been able to reach over 10,000 children through meetings, painting exhibitions, radio programmes, publications, etc.

Success Stories

PUJA WANTS TO BECOME A SOCIAL WORKER AND HELP OTHER CHILDREN

Puja is a 15-year-old slim girl. She smiles a lot, and whenever she does, her uneven teeth, stained yellowish-brown, come out open, revealing a sign of her continued consumption of gutkha (a tobacco product). She lives with her parents and two siblings, a younger brother and an elder sister, in a rented house at Dhauli Piya in Mathura. The family's livelihood comes from rickshaw-pulling by her father Bhagwat Singh and selling of gutkha by her mother Sheela. The project team came in contact with her during an outreach activity. Reduction in gutkha consumption, development in communication and leadership skills are the areas where she has shown a considerable improvement. Her gutkha consumption has reduced from 35-40 packets a day to just 4-5. Besides that, her interpersonal relation with other children and staffs has improved qualitatively.

'Papa pushed me into the work of gutkha selling. Initially I did it with mother, then alone. Every money earned by me and my mother went to papa,' said Puja

Neha-THE RISING LEADER

I lost my father at very young age. I joined my mother at work to survive peers. I was 13 years old when I first heard of HJKRVSS. I was so shy and scared at first, it took them a month of counseling me and talking with my family before I finally dared to attend the contact point. Contact point is a special school that HJKRVSS runs on the streets for children like me. I started to learn language skills and even math. I couldn't believe it – even though I had never been to school before, here I was learning.

The contact point helped me to catch up so that I wouldn't be bullied at school for being too far behind. It also taught my life skills, so as a result I stopped using tobacco because it harms my health. They even helped me to visit a police station and learn about my child rights, something I would have been too afraid to do before.

After a year of attending the contact point I was able to start school in class 4. It was scary at first but right now I'm in class 7 and top of my class! I'm also the district president of Badhte Kadam, the street and working children's Federation with over 10,000 members. The scared girl with no name is now an educated leader in her community.

The target that HJKRVSS achieved this year sounds quite stupendous. This could be made possible only because it got significant support from a wide range of partners, donors, and other organizations. Hope for Children and Comic Relief, UK

MAKING CITY SAFER FOR CHILDREN

Schools at police stations to fight trafficking, drug abuse

REFORM First centre with 20 ragpicker kids inaugurated at Hazrat Nizamuddin station; more to follow

HT Correspondent

■ hreporters@hindustantimes.com

NEW DELHI: Delhi Police have hit upon a novel idea to check trafficking and prevent children from becoming drug addicts — opening and running schools for them from police stations.

The force inaugurated the first such school at the Nizamuddin police station on Friday with 20 children — mostly ragpickers — being enrolled in the first batch.

The open basic education program, which is being run with the help of NGO Chetna, is a first-of-its-kind effort initiated by Delhi Police to provide free education to abandoned children living near railway stations.

"This will help them reform themselves. The idea is to not only provide support to the individual child, but also make efforts to provide measures for protecting children who indulge in bad habits," said Sanjay Bhatia, DCP (railway).

Regular classes will be held at the police station at the Hazrat Nizamuddin railway station.

Teachers from the NGO will teach the children from 10 am to 2 pm every day, police said.

"Refreshments will be served to children and their health will be monitored. Children will be engaged in studies and encouraged to participate in co-curricular activities to help prevent them picking up bad habits," Bhatia added.

Sanjay Gupta, director of Chetna NGO, said a large number of children were falling prey to substance abuse.

"Besides regular training and sensitization, we will try to bridge the gap between children and police through regular interface. We appeal to members of the civil society to join in this initiative," Gupta said.

A number of children who were enrolled at the Nizamuddin School sounded excited.

"I have taken admission in the centre and will come regularly," said a 17-year-old ragpicker.

Subhash Kumar, who was a street vendor and was given basic education by Chetna, will be teaching at the centre to ensure children do not fall prey to trafficking.

"My financial condition forced me to do anything to earn my livelihood. Now that I am capable of teaching and earning, I will teach these children," said Kumar, an IAS aspirant. "Delhi police is continuously working towards the protection and the cause of children. If successful, this initiative will be extended to other railway stations of Delhi," said Mukesh Kumar Meena, joint CP (New Delhi range).
